U.S. and Israel may be secretly using neutron bombs to achieve genetic destruction of Palestinians, radiation expert warns

British scientist Christopher Busby believes that it is not impossible that Israel, with the help of the United States, is secretly using neutron bombs to "genetically cleanse" Palestinians in Gaza. The neutron bomb is a specialized type of nuclear weapon that would produce minimal blast and heat but would release large amounts of lethal radiation.

The radiation expert agreed with Mike Adams during a recent episode of the "Health Ranger Report" that the kinetic damage that's been caused to the hospitals and residential buildings in Gaza may be the secondary effect as the primary goal was actually genetic damage of an ethnic group – the very definition of genocide.

"Yes, and it is the same thing they [Israel and the U.S.] did in Fallujah [Iraq]," Busby said.

"Americans built the neutron bomb and they have a load of them on the front of some of their missiles. They used it in Fallujah because it's the ideal weapon for killing people who are hiding behind stone walls. It doesn't knock down the wall but it kills the people. [Former Russian President Boris] Yeltsin called it the capitalist bomb because it doesn't destroy property, it destroys people."

Adams dug deeper, bringing up the possibility of higher rates of cancer and infertility in Fallujah because of the neutron bombs. As per the English radiation expert, they dropped these uranium weapons on Gaza in 2008 and presumably also in 2014. "We would expect some sort of downstream effects that are measurable now. It's not so easy to measure cancer effects because you need to have a control population but epidemiology for children is not difficult because we know what the birth rate is," he explained. "We also found congenital malformation, a huge increase in babies were born with deformities, birth defects. We also found a sex ratio perturbation."

Busby confirmed that he, himself published a study in 2010 about this and he even went to Geneva and talked to the Human Rights Council and International Red Cross. Despite the backing of Arab lawyers and other people, they never managed to get anybody to do anything. "Except that the Iraqis got the Iraqi government got onto me and they said, 'will you collaborate on a study with us to check on these levels of congenital malformation?'" he recalled, adding that he agreed to do it however, he needed to be involved in designing the study and the problem was there was such a load of crooked epidemiology that barred him from continuing to conduct the study. "They said 'Oh, no, we can't let you do that' and 'No, I'm not going to work with you.'"

Adams agreed citing how Gazans now are left without a choice as Israel would ask them to evacuate northward but the Israeli forces would bomb the north. Then they went to the south and then they were bombing them because the civilians were concentrated there. "On a humanitarian basis, something is wrong. It's like they wanted a higher concentration of people in the same place, which actually would fit your theory of neutron exposure," the Brighteon.com and Natural News founder pointed out.

Busby chimed in, saying the American government was just watching the "genocide" unfold in Iraq and now in the Palestinian enclave. "It's worse than Hitler, concentration camps and the gas chambers because it's a huge population and all are together in one place," he said emphasizing how easy it would be to systematically destroy them with genetic weapons. Busby: Russians also have neutron bombs Horried about the possible "nuclear catastrophe" of the neutron bombs, Adams clarified with Busby that the weapons being dropped on Gaza are manufactured by the United States. "I just saw an article that most of the bombs are unguided bombs and they're not intended to strike particular targets. These are area effect, weapons of mass destruction being dropped on a highly dense civilian residential infrastructure with Hamas tunnels underneath." He then proceeded to ask which other country could have a similar technology.

"The Russians for sure," the British radiation scientist quipped. "They've more or less developed it. In my understanding, they originally called it 'Red Mercury.'" Adams confirmed to have heard about the uniquely powerful chemical explosive which has been dismissed by many people as just a myth. Busby said that according to people who were talking to veteran nuclear weapon designer Frank Barnaby back in the 1980s, he said it was about the size of a tennis ball or a baseball and they were pretending it was actual mercury. "But I think that was just some sort of cover-up because red mercury was [former Premier of the Soviet Union Joseph] Stalin's code for enriched uranium," he added.

They agreed that apart from the Russians, the Chinese probably already have the technology as well, which raises yet another concern about the high possibility of nuclear war. However, Busby ruled out the nuclear weapon being used as an act of terrorism simply because of a certain degree of sophistication in manufacturing the bombs. "You've got to make this hydride, you've got to get deuterium, you've got to get heavy water or even tritium and then you need a reactor to get tritium and then you've got to react it in such a way it's 300 degrees," he noted. "So, it's not something you could knock up in the kitchen."
